Summary of JMeter

By running the tests and making a summary report can give us a lot of information about our server.
Such as the lowest/maximum response time for our requests.
How many requests were sent.
And by reading the result tree we can go into the single request and look at that and see what is sent and received. In the tree the green results indicate success, where red indicate failures.